Europe through the eyes of young people

Equity

To succeed, there must be equity. We must be a family, share, help, and be fair and sincere. Equity banish any kind of discriminated, banish stereotypes and create balance.

People are different and that's a good thing, great. For this reason, people have different needs.

Young people are the future

In a world led by adults, what influence, what power could a young man have? We hear very often that young people have no experience, employers ask a young man just out of school banks, minimum one year of experience in the field which is kind of impossible because all employers ask for it. Considering that young people must be helped more, because young people are the future, and the future is much more promising if supported.

Young people are the future

Give young people a greater voice.
They are the future and they are much wiser than we give them credit for.

Unity in economy

Most people in Europe agree with the concept of cooperation in trade, but the EU has taken it upon itself to try and build a United States of Europe. That's far beyond what ever has been requested by the people and no country has voted on it. In fact, whenever there are referendums held that involve Europe, a majority of the people specifically rejects anything that resembles turning Europe into a single country or close union.

Most likely, various countries will join together based on economic shared interests, though nationalist sentiments will delay the process. The survivors will be those that learn how to live peacefully and sustainably upon the planet. Self Interest must concede to the Common Good, and the benefit of Humanity as a whole.

Unity in economy

As more and more companies move to other countries(USA, China and Eastern Europe) due to lower taxes and better business bureaucracy unemployment rate in western europe tend to be higher, welfare state will be less than today and economy will down due to ageing productive workforce, lack of skilled immigrants and high taxes.

Probably Europe will be very different of today!

In conclusion,

the future is promising if people work on this, and if young people are helped morally, spiritually and financially, not just them, but everyone has to win. We all have to support each other, to accept, to have dreams and to work to fulfill them.
